Sharon Stone helps bring clean water to Haiti. You can help too!

Sharon Stone joins forces with LifeGivingForce to bring portable clean water filtration units to help the people of Haiti. Link: <http://www.youtube.com/user/LifeGivingForce>

LifeGivingForce <www.lifegivingforce.com> is saving lives by deploying water units to Haiti. The first 4 donated solar powered medical grade water purification units were delivered last week directly into the hands of:

- Clinton Foundation/Partners in Health
- Jenkins - Sean Penn Haitian Relief Organization/82nd Airborne IDP Camp
- ACDI/VOCA, IDP camp Jacmel
- H.O.P.E. Haiti/AFB Clinic, Borgne

Jamieson Slough, COO of LifeGivingForce, traveled with the units to Haiti to ensure that they arrived safely and to train representatives of each of the recipient groups in how to operate them. He assessed the situation on the ground as to the need for more units and captured the story as he went.

LifeGivingForce is now working around the clock to raise enough support to send another 120 portable suitcase size units which it will distribute to meet the growing demands of organizations directly involved in the disaster relief efforts in Haiti. 1 portable suitcase size solar-powered water system can provide fresh water for up to 10,000+ people daily.

A lack of portable water remains a life or death issue in Haiti – even weeks after the magnitude 7.0 earthquake. With millions of homeless Haitian people jammed into germ breeding makeshift camps and the risk of waterborne disease on the increase, water purification systems remain the most feasible way to get clean, safe water to survivors. With the rainy season fast approaching, the need for these units will only increase.

LifeGivingForce (with its partners working in Haiti – 2 Life 18 Foundation - www.2life18.org) is asking individuals, businesses, and organizations to buy and donate units to support the Haiti population with clean water.

“Our goal is simple: to save as many lives as possible by providing a sustainable water purification system to those in dire need” said Jamieson Slough, Chief Operating Officer of LifeGivingForce.” After going to Haiti to deploy the solar powered water purification units directly to those in need, my resolve to get more units down to the people of Haiti grew ten fold. The rainy season is around the corner and with the amount of trash and rubble in the streets, every existing water source will become compromised. These units are saving lives this minute and with your help LifeGivingForce will continue to forge ahead and get more units to where they are needed most.”
